SUBURBAN WEDDING.

The marriage of Miss Cora Whitlow to Mr. Sidney Hurt took place Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, near the eastern suburbs of the city, and certainly there has not been seen in this vicinity this season a happier or prettier pair of the same character. Relatives of the two families immediately interested, and a few invited friends from town and country composed the company, which numbered thirty or forty persons.

Preliminary to the ceremony, which was set for 7 o'clock, Mrs. E. H. Redman beautifully sang two appropriate selections, and when the bridal party entered the west parlor. First came the bride and her pretty bridesmaid, Miss Polly Allen, of Pilot Grove, followed by the bridegroom and his best man, her brother, Mr. Warner Whitlow. The bride was attired in a lovely gown of party silk with garnet velvet and pearl trimmings, and carried white roses. Miss Allen was crowned in white organdie over tulle, and carried carnations. A pleasing innovation was that the wedding march was played by the pianist, Jessie Whitlow, who is only seven years old and sister of the bride.

The picture presented by the youthful couple and their attendants, as they stood in the decorated parlor in the presence of the pastor—the Rev. A. R. Faris, of the M. E. church, South—and their friends, was one of charming simplicity and beauty.

When the interesting ceremony was concluded and congratulations had been extended, the bridal party and guests repaired to the large dining-room, where were arranged two tables, profusely decorated with chrysanthemums and carnations and lighted with colored candles. Wagner, the caterer, and an assistant, had charge of these tables, which were burdened from end to end with a sumptuous feast good to look at and still better to eat. Mrs. Sam Whitlow and Miss Addie Whitlow lent their valuable services and the company was delightfully served.

The bride, who is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Whitlow, has just passed her twentieth year and is noted for her girlish beauty and sweetness of disposition. She is a Thanksgiving present of which any man might be proud.

The bridegroom is only twenty-one years old and is a son of W. A. Hurt, one of Cooper county's wealthy and pioneer citizens. He is a handsome young man, of sterling social and business qualities.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurt left on the flyer yesterday morning for Kansas City, where they will remain a few days.

There were many handsome bridal presents.

W. H. H. McCARTY DEAD.

W. H. H. McCarty, an old settler and old soldier and ex-county clerk of Morgan county, died at his home, one mile east of Versailles, Tuesday morning, of stomach trouble. Mr. McCarty was elected to the office of county and circuit clerk by the Republicans, in 1858, which office he filled four years with general satisfaction. After this term of office expired he was editor for a short time of the Morgan County Banner, the first Republican paper published in the county. During the last few years he has been engaged in farming.

Deceased earned the printing business in Boonville long before the Civil war and was the first foreman of the Republican office in this city, sixteen years ago. He was a Union veteran of the Civil war and participated in the battles of Franklin, Nashville and other battles. About a year ago his son, Mrs. Harvey Bunce, of near Boonville, died, and by her will left him a fine farm in Morgan county and $4,000. He was a nephew of Mrs. Melvina Wallace, of this city, and last visited here some three months ago.
