MRS. WILLIAM HALEY DEAD

Wyoming Woman Was Visiting Her Parents in Boonville.

Mrs. William Haley died suddenly Tuesday morning at home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hornbeck on Court Street. Mrs. Haley, whose home was in Wyoming had been visiting here for several weeks. Heart disease was given as the cause of her death. Besides her husband, Mrs. Haley is survived by a small son, her parents, and two brothers, A. J. and David Hornbeck, of Boonville.

CHARLES SIMPSON DEAD

Howard County Man Bought Walnut Logs Here Two Years Ago.

News was received here today of the death of Charles Simpson of Fayette. Mr. Simpson died in St. Louis the first part of the week following an operation in a hospital there. The funeral was held in Fayette Tuesday. Mr. Simpson owned a large farm near Fayette, and was known throughout this section as a successful business man. Two years ago he was in Cooper County and bought walnut logs extensively for shipment to city markets. While here he made many friends.

Robbers Took Guns and Watches.

Amateur burglars broke into the rear of the Hollomon Second Hand Store and took two guns, some shells and three watches Sunday night. Entrance was obtained through a window in the rear, which was broken out. The same evening Clyde Stanfield's lunch wagon was broken into and an Ingersoll watch taken from the drawer.

Wreck on Katy Near Clifton City.

A couple of freight cars were wrecked near Clifton City Tuesday and held up traffic on the Katy for the entire forenoon. The accident occurred near the big fill between Sweeney and Clifton. The damage was Melton will be news editor of the Republican and have charge of some new features to be added to the paper. He is a versatile writer, and in his work on the Sedalia paper has been generously quoted by the Kansas City Star, Literary Digest and other high class publications.

A word about the political policy of the new management. The editor and manager of the paper is a Republican of several years' participation in the party's activities in this state and expects to take his accustomed part in the work and welfare of the party in this city and county. But the Daily Republican was started here by Mr. Harte as a community enterprise along broad and independent lines, and inasmuch as it is the only daily here and has a mission to perform in the general promotion of community interest that should embrace the support and co-operation of all the people, it will be continued along community lines in editorial policy. Editorials of a partisan nature, in which I may have something to say about the record and achievements of the "grand old party" and possibly some incidental reference to the party that has "kept us out of war, sugar, coal and some other things," will be reserved for the Central Missouri Republican, which has long been conducted and recognized as an orthodox Republican paper.

In the very near future I expect to become a part of the home and family life of Boonville. Paraphrasing a reasonably keen statement of the late Sam Jones, "I have met very few women in this or any other community that I think more of than I do my wife," and as soon as suitable residential arrangements can be made, Mrs. Harrison and our young hopeful will join me here, and we shall undertake to take a deserving place in the best homelife of this city.

With these words of introduction I wish to take hold of the hands and hearts of this excellent people and move with them for the accomplish-
