E. C. Holliday, known to his many friends as "Earl," has made a thorough campaign for the office of collector. Few men are better known in Cooper County than this young office seeker. He has been unusually successful in conducting an insurance business, which has given him much training in business and finances. He seeks the office on his merits and promises a conscientious service to his constituents if elected.

S. H. Groves is one of the staunch Democrats of Kelly Township. Better known as "Hob" he has many friends in the eastern district, which he is seeking to represent in the county court. He is a successful farmer who knows the farmers' problems, and feels that he may serve his constituents well.

Who doesn't know "Doc" Cochran? A country doctor of the old school Judge Cochran is affectionately known by hundreds in every township and community—especially in Big Lick. Judge Cochran has efficiently served the county in the office of probate judge for the last four years, and is seeking re-election on his record. Every estate has received careful attention; every term of the court has been handled carefully. Though born in Boone County, Dr. Cochran has been identified with Cooper County most of his lifetime. His children and grandchildren are among our good citizens.

Some one called Rolla Pealer the best county clerk in Missouri. A record in office that any candidate might envy is his. That is why his friends urge that he be retained. Mr. Pealer is one of the best known men in Cooper County. No office transacts more business than his and no officer has been more accessible to the people of the county than the present county clerk. His years of experience have fitted him for extraordinary service. On his record as an efficient public servant he is seeking re-election.

Albert Hoff of Pilot Grove is one of the best known young men in his community. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Hoff of the Buffalo Prairie neighborhood. He was employed at Manion's Clothing Store in Boonville for two years previous to his present position as assistant cashier of the Citizens Bank of Pilot Grove, in which work he has been successful. He has many friends who urge his election. He is a new office seeker, and stands on his record as a community leader. He promises an efficient term if elected circuit clerk and recorder.

Ed L. Bauman has been a resident of Boonville all his life, and is well known to Cooper County farmers. For the last several years he has been with the Boonville Mercantile Company, where he is in charge of the harness and saddle department. He has come in contact with Cooper County farmers, and is well known throughout the county. For a number of years he was collector of the revenue, in which office he made many friends.

P. D. Sweeney, present circuit clerk and recorder, is seeking re-election to the office on his record. He has held his office a number of years, and is thoroughly familiar with the arduous work it requires. Mr. Sweeney formerly was a resident of the Clifton City community, and has many friends all over Cooper County. He has many supporters who recommend his re-election.

Charles Henry Huber, present city clerk of Boonville, is seeking the office of county clerk of Cooper County. He is a native of Boonville, served in the American army during the World War, and has been active in American Legion work, being the present commander of the local post. He is a member of a prominent Boonville family, is known throughout the county, and has made an active campaign for the office, he seeks.
