and Greene County, Mo.

I lovingly dedicate this little book to Cole, who gave freely of his labors to help make the Roper Gemetery the beautiful place it is today.

Lois Roper Beard

Located near Morgan, in Laclede County,
Missouri

On May 4, 1856, William Martin Roper, the six-week old son of Welcome Martin and Margaret Ann (Gammon) Roper, died and the first grave in Roper Cemetery was made.

In the absence of his father, who was away from home hauling freight by ox team from the nearest railroad station at Rolla to merchants in Lebanon, the baby's uncle, Milton Roper, selected the site and made the grave ready for burial.

Because of lack of communication the father could not be notified of the death. It took two-weeks to make the trip so William Martin was buried long before his father's return.

Uncle Milton was the second grave made and is at the foot of the first one.

PLOT ARRANGEMENT

To locate a grave in Roper Cemetery begin at the Southeast corner and follow rows North.

Reserved spaces are marked in the book. Approximately 12 feet was left just inside the fence for travel.

South side to center of cemetery:

The unknown soldier's grave in row 10 is the remains of a soldier who was killed during the Civil War by bushwhackers and buried by his comrades at the place of death. This was near Thurman Spring, about where the late Elmer Doing's home is today.

Uncle Jasper Dennis knew of the incident and in his later life searched for the grave and found it. With the help of neighbors they removed the remains to the Roper Cemetery about the year 1912.

The Moore baby was buried in Roper Cemetery many years ago, but is not the first grave as many think.

His parents were traveling through in a covered wagon and made camp at Roper Spring. The baby became ill and died. He was buried, and before the family traveled on, the father made the iron pen and placed it around the little grave.

Sarah Roper Palmer dressed the child for burial and his clothes were red flannel.

The graves of Joseph and Margaret Reagan were in the Southeast corner of the first cemetery which was one-fourth acre.
