History of Lafayette County
Page 63

In 1813 the General Assembly of the Territory of Missouri sub-divided the extensive region then under its jurisdiction into 7 counties St. Charles, St. Genevieve, Arkansas, New Madrid, Washington, Cape Girardeau, and St. Louis, and what is now Lafayette County was included in the latter county.

In 1816 all that part of St. Louis county between the Osage and Missouri rivers, including a large extent of country lying immediately north and west of Cedar Creek, extending to the dividing ridge between the Missouri and Mississippi rivers, was organized into a separate county, to which the name of Howard was given, and, in 1818 all that portion of Howard County lying south of the Missouri river was established from Cooper on the 16th of November 1820; it embraced all of Cooper County west of range 23 which is the present eastern boundary. It took its name from James Lillard, who was the first member of the legislature and originator of the bill establishing the county. By an act of legislature of 1825 the name of Lillard gave place to that of Lafayette. The county was reduced to its present limits in 1834.

From the most authentic information that we can obtain, we are led to believe that the Coxes were the first actual settlers within the present limits of the county, locating on the Lick fork of the Tabo, as early as 1816.

Solomon, Thomas, Joseph, and Jesse Cox, the latter with his family, were, with the exception of a trader who located where Arrow Rock now stands, in 1808, the first settlers of Saline Co.

The next settlers were David James and three grown sons. They located on section 16, township 50, range 27, in 1817.

John Lovelady, W. R. Cole, and James Rounds settled soon after.

During the year 1818 Gillead Rupe, who was among the early settlers of Howard County, a family of the name of Graham, Christopher Catron, Major James Fletcher, John Robinson, and several others came.

1819 brought a larger number, among of whom were Col. John Wallace, Josiah, George, and Thomas Nelson, John Stapp, Markham, Robert, and Richard Fristoe, William Jack, Captain Henry Renick, William Renick, Young Ewing, Thomas Hopper, the widow of Samuel Renick, Jonathan Hicklin, William Hall, Littleberry Estis, John Evans, and 1820 and '21 witnessed a large increase in the population, among a few of the more prominent were Col. William

Horn, David Ward, Adam Young, Robert Rankin, Thomas Treble,
Nicholas Houx, John Bowman, Absalom Coleman, Joseph Hobson,
Dangerfield Rice, Judge Julius Emmons, James McMahon, Morgan
Cockrell, Richard Powell, Abel and William Owens.

An index is provided in the back listing grooms and brides.

Example: Walter Burwell to Lydia Cox 26 April 1821
