LOUISIANA, SITE OF RIVERVIEW CEMETERY

The city of Louisiana, Missouri is situated on the eastern border of Buffalo Township, just south of the confluence of Salt River with the Mississippi. On the northern edge of the city are the bluffs and hills which gradually swing toward the West forming a crescent shape which gradually encircles the city. Riverview Cemetery is located on these hills and bluffs on the northern edge of the city.

The site on which the city is built was first owned by John Bryson who came here from South Carolina in the fall of 1816. He pre-empted a claim to one-quarter of Section 18, Township 54, Range 1 West. He built the first house erected within the present city limits -- on what is today Ninth St. between Tennessee and Georgia Sts. Joel Shaw and Samuel Caldwell bought part of Bryson's claim in 1818, that part lying next to the river, and had it laid out in lots by James Jones, the first surveyor of the county. The town was named Louisiana; but there is some question regarding the namesake, whether it was the State of Louisiana or the Louisiana Purchase. The streets running east and west were named after prominent southern states, and those running north and south were numbered with the exception of the street that runs along the river which was named Water Street and the street next to it which was called Main Street. The other north and south streets followed in order beginning with third. Water street received the first improvement with both residences and business houses being erected there.

As John Bryson was establishing his claim, twenty-four year old James Hart Stark, along with a small band of settlers, crossed the river from Illinois into where the city of Louisiana now stands. This founder of Stark's Nursery carried with him a bundle of apple scions from his father's farm in Bourbon County, Ky. His apple groves were planted on the west side of Louisiana at the same time as the city was laid out.

Up to 1835, Louisiana, with the exception of Water St., was almost an unbroken forest. Even where trees had been cut away, papaw and hazel brush thickets grew in abundance. At this time, Louisiana began to make further improvements by cutting down the forest, grading the road to the river landing and adding tons of stone to the banks of the river. Other streets in the city were graded. By 1853 Louisiana was a flourishing business town. Residents began to build large homes as the area was growing rapidly and there was the expectation on the part of the city populace that Louisiana was going to develop into a large city. The population grew as high as 7,000 in the middle of the 1880's but it has seen a gradual decline which even continues to the present 4500 residents today. In 1989 Louisiana is known for its many large, beautiful homes dating from the 19th century.

The first public school in Louisiana was established in 1870. The Catholic Cemetery was started in 1878 and the Hebrew Cemetery in 1871; but there is no actual date for the beginning of Riverview Cemetery. There is no mention of the cemetery in the 1883 edition of the History of Pike County. According to the Sexton of the cemetery, it is believed that the early settlers needed an area in which to bury so they simply began using the ground that is presently known as the Old Cemetery. Many graves in this area are not marked. No doubt early graves were marked with wooden crosses, boulders or crude sandstone slabs. Most of these old markers have disappeared. In fact, many of the stones erected in the latter part of the 1800s and early 1900s are gone. Some have weathered to the point where they are illegible and others were not set properly and have fallen over. Limbs of trees have fallen off and broken stones, but the greatest damage has been done by the lawn mower.

Cemetery records give the oldest burial, a Fleece who died April 1, 1813. An illegible sandstone slab probably marks this grave on what we call today lot 307. The stones of Mary Small, d. Sept 1821, and her daughter Nancy Kelly, d. March 22, 1822, are visible from the road. Although part of the inscription is illegible, the years, when chalked, are very clear. Thomas J. Baird's stone is a sandstone slab that is almost illegible. His birth date, 1802, and death date, Dec. 13, 1816, are quite clear, however; and his age of 14 is in agreement with the dates. His burial is on lot 284.

Pike County DAR was organized on Feb. 10, 1911, and at the 4th meeting of this organization they took on their first memorial project which was the building of a stone wall and ornamental gateway at the entrance of Riverview Cemetery plus the building of a sexton's office. At the same time, they formed the Louisiana Cemetery Assoc. which financed the project and which provided permanent care for cemetery lots. Record books were provided for each section of the cemetery and they proceeded to try to record, or perhaps reconstruct, the burials in the cemetery. This system functioned for fifty-three years, until the cemetery was turned over to the city in 1966.

G.A.R. LOT & CITY GROUND

After the Civil War, the veterans of that war formed a Grand Army of the Republic post in Louisiana. They erected a statue to commemorate Civil War veterans in the cemetery, Pike County's only Civil War Monument. The ground to the left and the right of the monument is called the G.A.R. lot and some of ground beyond City Ground. It is believed that this part of the cemetery contains a number of mass graves -- burials of soldiers killed during the Civil War and shipped here by boat; others, a result of various epidemics that swept the city during the last half of the 1800's.

The Civil War Monument was erected in 1884 by Major James Wilson Post No. 20, G.A.R., Dept. of Mo.

To all brave Defenders of the Union in 1861-1865 from

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

All of the material in this volume was copied by Rosemary B. Brown and her husband William L. Brown, Jr. They were assisted on two occasions; once by two of their granddaughters, Stacey and Kristi Brown, and again by two members of Pike County DAR, Mrs. Virginia Miller (F. T.) and Mrs. Leota King (Kenneth), both of whom wanted to learn how to copy cemetery inscriptions.

Rosemary B. Brown, Chairman of the Pike County DAR Cemetery Committee, compiled and typed all of the material in this publication.
